

Job postings

As a service to our members and to the community at large, we are posting job openings.

You'll find them under the Jobs tab: <http://ostiweb.org/jobs/>

The most updated jobs will be at the top, and the oldest jobs will be at the bottom, so we don't have to delete old job postings. By listing the date we posted them, you will have an idea how fresh the posting is.

At this point, we are aware of job openings for medical interpreters in Seattle and Portland. We will announce other jobs as we are aware of them. As stated, these are not endorsements of job conditions, which may be discussed at leisure on this list. Feel free to do so!

One of the things you may want to do is explore these job listings to see what the job requirements are, and evaluate what the market is actually requiring (or hoping to require) of full time or part time interpreters. Our listserv could debate whether those are realistic possibilities or not, why, and so on. This debate, in a professional environment, could help us approach our stakeholders with some facts in the future.

And we celebrate that Denise Fainberg is a recently ATA certified French to English translator! She tells us how it happened in this post:

<http://ostiweb.org/on-first-taking-the-ata-certification-exam/>

We are here to serve you!

Stay in touch!

And congratulate Denise if you get a chance... Look her up on the directory and send her a note!

Helen Eby

Gaucha TI

c: 503-929-8476

o: 503-642-5879

heby@gauchati.com<<mailto:heby@gauchati.com>>

www.blog.gauchati.com<<http://www.blog.gauchati.com/>>